PROGRAM

February -- We had a very good turnout in spite of the bad weather. After a very interesting slide program obtained from the Midwest Federation and narrated by our own Jim Patterson, we circulated among the demonstrations given by various club members -- Reo Hovey and Scott Taylor with silversmithing; Lloyd Conklin with carving gypsum and other materials; Bill Rogers with many uses of Petoskey stones; David Swain with wirecraft; John Passaneau with his microscope and lovely micro-mounts; Cleora Purtill with lovely unusual arrangements using rocks and driftwood; Sam Knox and his wood carving; Sara Lee Chubb with a fine collection of fossils.

March 15 -- Stephen Sinotte will present a slide show and lecture about the fabulous Keokuk Geodes.

SHOW -- A theme for this year's show has been chosen -- Rocks in History. Since resources of minerals and gems have played a major role in the exploration and settlement of new lands, in wars, in technological developments, and in the lives of many individuals, this theme should offer a challenge for interesting exhibits.
